75 managers face layoffs at GC Steel

The new year could bring hard times to as many as 75 Granite City Steel managers apparently slated for layoffs. The managers are scheduled to be dismissed Jan. 1 and will receive no severance pay or company medical insurance, unlike previous management cuts that provided generous severance and insurance packages, sources close to the company said.

The layoffs are part of a plan by the company's owner, National Steel Corp., to lay off 400 managers at Granite City and its two other plants in Michigan and Indiana. The layoffs are expected to have the greatest impact in the Granite City area, but economic shock waves also are likely to be felt throughout Metro East.

Sources said most of the managers to be laid off next month earn more than $60,000 a year and are in their 50s. They will not be eligible for pension benefits until they turn 65.

National Steel officials said they do not know how many managers will be laid off at Granite City or the other plants. "We really won't know for another three weeks or so and, in fact, probably won't be able to say with any certainty until it actually happens," National Steel spokesman Bob Toothman said.

He confirmed that severance packages to be offered to laid-off managers will not be as generous as in previous cuts. However, he said a decision has not been made on whether to eliminate severance pay or health insurance from those packages.

"The things that have already been ruled out (of severance packages) are early pensions or pension windows of any sort. What is being looked at now is the question of severance pay, the extension of health benefits and outplacement (for new jobs)," Toothman said.

Sources close to the company said managers have been told there will be no severance pay or continued medical benefits.

If that is the case, the layoffs would be in sharp contrast to handsome early retirement packages offered to dozens of managers two years ago during a similar cost-cutting effort by National Steel.

At that time, managers at the Granite City plant were offered severance pay equal to one year's salary and continuing insurance benefits to entice them into early retirement. Many of those managers, who were also in their 50s and several years short of pension eligibility, agreed to retire.

Granite City Steel employs 2,300 unionized workers, who are protected from layoffs by contract.

Mayor to seek compromise on debate limit

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A majority of the aldermen in Granite City would like to see debate limited on matters to come before the City Council.

But a majority of the aldermen is not necessarily a majority of the council. And Mayor Ron Selph — technically the 15th member of the council — says that he may not go along with a debate limitation ordinance that eight aldermen favored and seven opposed Tuesday night.

Selph

"I think I'll hold off signing it and see if they can reach a compromise," Selph said after the meeting.

At issue is a proposed amendment to the city council's decorum ordinance that would limit aldermen to two two-minute opportunities to speak on any given subject.

Proponents, such as 7th Ward Alderman Sandy Crites, who called for the amendment, cited long council meetings and often repetitive speeches on the council floor. Crites also said one alderman can currently monopolize the floor and prohibit other aldermen from voicing their views.

Opponents, such as 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney, called the proposal a "gag order" that will have the effect of limiting information about any given subject before the aldermen vote.

And Selph, who generally favors the idea of debate limitation, said that the proposal is too rigid and would not promote smooth discussion at times when it is necessary.

The current decorum ordinance limits aldermen to two opportunities to speak on a given subject and limits debate to a total of 30 minutes on any topic. But it does not set any time limitation on individual speeches.

The proposed amendment limits aldermen to two opportunities of two minutes each on any matter. The only way to override the procedure would be a two-thirds vote of the aldermen to suspend the rule.

The amendment initially contained a provision giving the mayor the discretion to extend an alderman's opportunity if warranted. But that provision was deleted by an amendment initiated by Crites.

"Sometimes two minutes is too long to talk and sometimes it isn't enough. But the chair should have the ability to ensure smooth discussion. Having to interrupt in the middle to call for a two-thirds vote of the council could disrupt discussions," Selph said.

New round of closings next year Region will fight to save bases

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Scott Air Force Base in Belleville and the Charles Melvin Price U.S. Army Support Center in Granite City would seem to have all the right cards to play when it comes to military base closures and realignment.

Nonetheless, officials throughout the St. Louis metropolitan region are not relying on a pat hand. They are combining resources and planning strategy for the upcoming round of military cuts, which are a result of federal legislation passed in 1988.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello said Wednesday the 1995 Base Realignment and Closure Commission round scheduled to begin in earnest Jan. 1 — the fourth and last of federally sanctioned base closing process — is expected to be the most comprehensive round.

While some bases — including Scott — were exempt from scrutiny in rounds one, two and three in 1988, 1991 and 1993, respectively, Costello said that is no longer the case in the final round.

"There is no list at this date. The Department of Defense is evaluating all military installations. No base is exempt from closure or realignment," Costello said.

Scott Air Force Base employs more than 10,000 and the Price Support Center employs another 2,000. The facilities and the families of those who work there are vital parts of each community, Costello said.

St. Clair County Board Chairman John Baricovic estimates that the two bases combined have an impact of about $2 billion annually to the regional economy. That figure includes direct employment as well as vendors and suppliers on both sides of the river.

The new BRAC Commission, to be chaired by former U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon of Belleville, begins its review in January. The Pentagon will make recommendations, based primarily on strategic matters, to the BRAC Commission by March 1. BRAC will then hold public hearings, investigate the DOD findings and take into account the economic impact of each base and the quality of life of its residents before compiling a list for President Bill Clinton by July 1.

Clinton will then either accept or reject the entire list. Congress will have the same option.

In an effort to protect the local bases, Costello and local officials from both St. Clair and Madison counties, mayors, business leaders, the Leadership Council Southwestern Illinois and the Regional Commerce and Growth Association are sharing resources and combining their talents and influence.

But other communities with military installations are doing the same, making the defense of the local bases an expensive process.

Costello would not put a specific dollar amount on the regional effort, which will include hiring expensive military consultants (See BASES, Page 10A)

Bellcoff: Property taxes will not go up

The only possibility of an increase in taxes levied by the city of Madison this fiscal year will be to the liability insurance fund. But Mayor John Bellcoff says property taxes will not go up.

Madison City Attorney Casper Nighoghossian presented Madison's proposed tax levy at a regular city council meeting Tuesday night.

"The only tax increase from last year on the proposed levy is to the liability fund because of the cost of liability insurance," said Nighoghossian.

On the proposed tax levy, which is for fiscal year May 1, 1994, to April 30, 1995, a $31,000 increase has been appropriated to the liability fund, making the total appropriation for the fund $237,500.

That much of an increase would put the city over the 1.65 percent increase limit and require a truth-in-taxation hearing.

However, the finance committee agreed to meet with Nighoghossian next week to get the levy under the increase limit.

"There will be no truth-in-taxation hearing," Nighoghossian said.

The levy increase discussion had some audience members worried.

"Is the city going to raise property taxes?" asked Kathy Poston of Madison.

"No, the city will not raise property taxes," Mayor Bellcoff emphatically replied.

Madison wins 3-year fight over dismissal of officer

By Hilley Schulte
Staff writer

After battling it out in court for more than three years, the city of Madison has won a fight over dismissal of a probationary police officer.

The state Appellate Court for the Fifth District has ruled in favor of Charles Bridick, former Madison police chief, and the board of police commissioners for the City of Madison in a case filed against them by Paula Ballew, a former Madison probationary officer.

Madison City Attorney Casper Nighoghossian said the court upheld the decision of the Board of Police Commissioners in dismissing Paula Ballew as a probationary officer "because of her failure to complete the police academy."

In 1990, Ballew hoped to become a police officer with the City of Madison. Because she believed a physical agility test administered by the city was discriminatory, she filed suit in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Illinois.

On Jan. 4, 1991, a consent judgment was entered in federal court in favor of Ballew. Ballew was awarded a money judgment, and Madison was ordered to hire her as a probationary police officer subject to rules, regulations and statutes of the City of Madison and the State of Illinois.

The order also required Madison to send Ballew to a police academy on the next available date and conditioned her employment upon successful completion of the academy and a one-year probationary period.

Madison hired Ballew and sent her to the Illinois State Police Academy for training on Feb. 3, 1991. Ballew failed the physical fitness test administered at the academy and was dismissed on Feb. 6, 1991.

Ballew was suspended by the board of police commissioners

Killing called justified

An Illinois State trooper's killing of an alleged drug dealer from South Roxana at a Pontoon Beach restaurant last week was justified, authorities say.

The trooper fatally shot Brandon Keith Menzie, 20, after Menzie started to point a handgun at him Wednesday afternoon near McDonald's in Pontoon Beach. The shooting followed a high speed chase and an attempted drug sting.

Madison County States Attorney Bill Haine said that the officer had no choice, but Menzie did. "He made the decision to draw down on the officer near a crowded McDonald's restaurant. Not only did he put the officer in danger, he put the public in danger. The officer had no choice. The decision that led to Mr. Menzie's death was made by Mr. Menzie," Haine said.

Service station fire controlled

Quick response by Granite City firefighters prevented a raging fire at a gas station from escalating into an explosive situation Thursday.

The fire at the Bellemore Shell station, located at Nameoki and Johnson roads, began in the garage area of the service station at about 11:15 a.m. It quickly spread throughout the building. Firefighters responded quickly and immediately set up between the service garage, which was involved in flames and filled with smoke, and the gas pumps just outside the building.

Several city races shaping up

A race is shaping up for the street superintendent post as well as in six of Granite City's seven wards.

Three potential street superintendent candidates have taken out petitions to have their names placed on the April 4 election. At least two candidates have taken out petitions for open aldermanic seats in each of the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th wards. Two candidates have also taken out petitions for each of the two seats to be elected in the 6th Ward.

Jan. 16 is the first day to file petitions.

United Way tops goal

The Tri-Cities Area United Way not only reached its campaign goal this year, but it collected 102 percent of what it hoped to get. Pledges and donations totaling $1,098,000 had been received by last Thursday. The goal had been $1,075,000.

Man dies in car-truck crash

David M. Harr, 39, of Granite City, died Thursday night from injuries sustained earlier in the day when a tractor-trailer truck jack-knifed on Edwardsville Road and struck his car head-on.

Harr was west bound on Edwardsville Road when the cab of the east bound truck crossed over into his lane and struck his car. The driver of the truck was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions.

Hagnauer reappointed

Madison County Board members voted unanimously Monday to reappoint Nelson Hagnauer as board chairman.

The vote of confidence marks the 12th consecutive two-year term as chairman for the Granite City leader.

Hagnauer will have been a member of the county board for 40 years next spring, having been first elected in 1955.

Innocent victim stabbed

A Kansas man was apparently in the wrong place at the wrong time Friday night when he was stabbed outside of the Chain of Rocks Motel in Granite City.

Ronald Bradford, 26, of Manhattan, Kan., was stabbed once in the side just after 8 p.m. Friday outside of the motel in what was apparently a case of mistaken jealousy.

Donald L. Winnie, 47, of the 2800 block of Harding Avenue in Granite City was charged with armed violence in connection with the stabbing in a warrant issued Monday.

He was being held on $200,000 bond.

Bridge repairs to begin

After almost four years of money hunting, McKinley Bridge repairs are expected to begin by the end of the month. The Illinois Department of Transportation recently awarded an 18-month, $7.4 million dollar contract to the Halverson Construction Company of Springfield for the work.

The bridge will remain open during the renovation.

Hiring expected to increase

Job prospects brightening for new college graduates

College seniors entering the job market next year will have the best chance in years at landing a job in their chosen fields.

A survey released Dec. 5 by the Collegiate Employment Research Institute at Michigan State University projects that hiring will increase by 5.9 percent over this year.

Area college placement officials said job prospects in Illinois and in the region are the brightest in a long time.

"You were looking at 10 to 15 percent of graduates going into jobs related to their majors," said James Scales, director of University Career Services at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. "Now it's 30 to 40 percent."

Scales said the improved figure reflects a good job market. About 30 percent to 40 percent of graduating seniors opt for seeking advanced degrees instead of testing the job market.

"New graduates should get better replies from employers than they have been receiving for the last three or four years," said Scales.

The new graduates will be getting bigger paychecks, too.

due to her dismissal from the academy, pending a hearing.

Following the hearing, the board dismissed Ballew as a probationary police officer.

A petition for administrative review was filed in circuit court, and on June 19, the circuit court affirmed the board's decision.

Ballew contended on appeal that the board's decision was against the "manifest weight" of evidence. She also claimed that the board made mistakes in several evidentiary rulings concerning the admissibility of evidence resulting in substantial injustice to her.

The Appellate Court of the Fifth District, in its ruling, said it "cannot agree that the decision of the board is contrary to the manifest weight of evidence."

The court said the thrust of Ballew's argument was that she was misled by the city regarding the physical fitness requirements of the academy.

"The undisputed evidence from both the city and Ballew is that she was never told by anyone at the city what physical requirements had to be met. While the city did not go out of its way to inform Ballew about the academy requirements, it did not mislead her," wrote the appellate court.

The court also wrote that it is undisputed that she failed to successfully complete the test of the academy. "There is no claim that the test was not fairly administered."

The court said the city was required to send Ballew to the academy, but not required to take the test for her. The federal court order required the city to send her to the first available class, and it did.

"She either had the ability to pass the test or she did not. We cannot say that the board's decision is contrary to the manifest weight of the evidence," the court's summary said.

'New graduates should get better replies from employers than they have been receiving for the last three or four years. (The increase represents a) modest recovery from a very severe erosion of the job market.'

Research director

ranking from $30,821 for telecommunications jobs to $40,689 for chemical engineers, according to the survey of 545 businesses, industries and government agencies.

Pay was higher in all parts of the country and in all occupations — ranging from a 1.3 percent hike to $23,856 for hotel and restaurant managers, to a jump of 2.6 percent to $35,302 for electrical engineers.

While improved, the job market remains highly competitive, Scales cautioned.

"There are a lot of jobs, but there are more graduates," he said. "You have to look at competing." Employers may take a close look at such factors as grade-point averages and communications skills, he added.

Several years of attractive early retirement incentives have made prospects particularly bright in Illinois for graduates with education degrees.

Scales said the demand for teachers is greater than supply and nearly all new grads will find a job, although some may have to relocate to find positions in their specialty.

"There are plenty of vacancies if people are willing to move," he said.

Scales said SIUC continues to expand cooperative work experience and internship programs.

"Employers look at that," he said. "It's a way they gauge abilities."

Graduates may land a job with the cooperating company or the experience may help in getting a job elsewhere, he said.

Ann Bullock, assistant director of career planning and placement at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, said placement is not her specialty and she was not familiar enough with employment trends to comment.

Bullock is acting director of the office while the university seeks a new director.

Woman charged in stabbing

Cheryl Smith, also known as Cheryl Johnson, 26, of Madison, was charged with aggravated battery for allegedly stabbing a man with a knife in the right side of his chest.

James E. Wooten, 41, also of Madison, is in stable condition at St. Elizabeth Medical Center after he was stabbed just before 10 p.m. Friday at the 1600 block of Third Street in Madison, police said.

Madison Police Chief Paul Bargiel said that, according to witnesses, the stabbing stemmed from an argument between Wooten and Smith, who are known to have a boyfriend-girlfriend relationship. Smith admitted to the crime, Bargiel said.

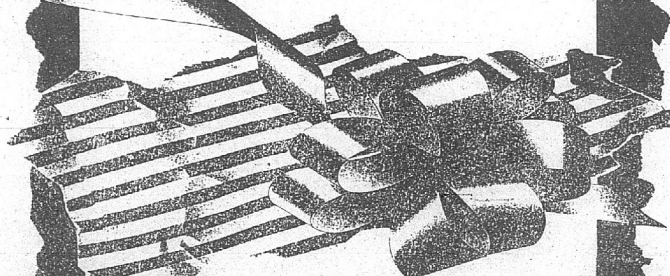

Donations sought for housing

Barbara Armer of Granite City said the project to provide handicapped housing at 900 Niedringhaus Avenue is progressing well, but donations are needed.

Milton Morris of Venice donated the building on Niedringhaus to the organization to be remodeled as a handicapped housing facility. The Venice Crippled Children organization donated $10,000 to the project, but Armer said $5,000 more is needed to complete the roof.

An organizational meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 10, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center to discuss the project. The room has not been designated, but the hospital information desk will have that information.

Attorney general's office here in jeopardy

Ryan will decide future of local facilities

Madison County residents balked out of thousands of dollars have found a friend in a state agency.

This month marks the 10th anniversary of the Illinois Attorney General's Regional office in Granite City. In the past decade, more than $800,000 in money lost to scam artists had found its way back to victims' pockets with the office's help.

But the future of the 10-year-old local office is currently in limbo.

"I'd like to think we've made a difference in people's lives," Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey said.

Orsey has directed the office since it opened in 1984.

"We've had a lot of diversity in this time period and we've made a lot of accomplishments."

The office is one of 18 regional offices throughout the state and is responsible for an eight-county area of more than 450,000 residents. Its primary function is to curb consumer fraud.

In the past decade, the office has been responsible for opening nearly 36,000 cases through consumer complaints resulting in restitution of at least $917,000 directly to fraud victims.

Judgments entered in court total more than $2.3 million, and more than $1.6 million in fines were collected for state and federal violations also saw an estimated $600,000 by Orsey's office negotiating settlements instead of going to trial.

"We've had one of the busiest offices in the state," Orsey said. "We've handled as many as 5,000 complaints in a single year and our average is about 4,000. Our purpose is to help people and I think we do a good job of it. We have binders full of thank you notes from people we've managed to help."

The fate of the regional offices is in the hands of recently-elected Attorney General Jim Ryan, who takes office in January. A spokeswoman for Ryan said a decision has not been made on the future of the offices.

Orsey said in transition team will restructure the agency when Ryan takes over but that he is not aware of plans for his office or himself.

"I know we'd enjoy the opportunity to keep doing what we do. There are a number of options a new administration can take, so we're waiting to hear."

Orsey said regional offices offer a convenience to the public that would be greatly missed, Orsey said.

"These offices demonstrate a quick response," he said. "Prior to their openings, the public would mail complaints to Springfield and then each case would be assigned. The idea of local offices staffed with local people has been a real success in my mind," Orsey said.

Residents often make complaints in person and provide documentation to speed the process.

"We have people walking in every day," he said.

"They like to bring in documents to discuss the case and it's helpful. The quicker we can nip the problem in the bud, the fewer victims we have. We can be a valuable source to the community by getting the message out," Orsey said.

In the past decade, Orsey's office has put the hammer down on fraudulent contractors, fundraising firms and faulty advertisers.

"We have been able to receive full restitution for victims of asphalt scams, consumer fraud and mail order rip-offs. We do a lot of collection work. This office has had an impact on a lot of people."

"We feel good when we can return $100 to a senior citizen who was victimized in a mail order scam. That may not seem like a lot of money, but to someone on a fixed income it is. We take pride in helping people."

About a dozen families that had waited for years for wedding photographs that never came, businesses that had paid for advertisements that were never distributed, and elderly individuals who were bilked in a home improvement fraud scheme are among those recently assisted by the regional office in Granite City.

Larry Dortch accepts a plaque honoring his 99th birthday from Granite City Mayor Ron Selph. Dortch has lived in Granite City for 72 years.

'You have to work at it'

At 99, he still keeps busy

By Hiley Schulte
Staff writer

Harry Dortch of Granite City just turned 99 years old, and he says he feels no different than he did 10 years ago. The reason: He treats aging like a job.

"You have to work at this job of being old. It is a job, and you can't think you can just sit around," said Dortch.

One of Dortch's "job requirements" is riding a stationary bicycle every day. Another requirement is going to the Granite City Town Hall Senior Citizens program every weekday.

"Down here they dance, they move around, they walk. That's what you have to do," he said.

Dortch's friends from the senior citizens program and town hall threw a party for him on his birthday, Dec. 1.

Mayor Ron Selph presented him with a plaque. A Granite City fire truck was even going to swing by to blast its siren in honor of Dortch's 99th, but unfortunately the truck had been in a fire instead.

Dortch was born Dec. 1, 1895, in Bear Springs, Tenn. He came to Granite City in 1922 and worked odd jobs until he got a job as a cook at Granite City Steel Restaurant.

During the Depression, the restaurant closed, so Dortch went to work at National Lead Restaurant.

He later got a WPA (Workers Progress Administration) job and eventually retired in 1960 as storekeeper for the U.S. Army Depot.

During World War I, Dortch served in the U.S. Army Intelligence as a scout, for which he later received a special medal.

"I wasn't intelligent, but I could chew the gum," Dortch jokingly said.

Dortch and his wife, Mary, have five children. One son, Ken Dortch, lives in Granite City. Other sons include Ed, Walnut Creek, Calif.; the Rev. Richard, Clearwater, Fla., and the late Charles Dortch, who lived in Houston. Dortch's daughter, Mary Francis Green, lives in St. Louis.

Dortch also has one surviving sister, Lottie Lynn, who lives in Standing Rock Creek, Tenn.

Davis to seek an early start

SPRINGFIELD — Steve Davis says he will seek an early start to his new job as state representative as a result of Rep. Jim McPike's plan to resign effective the end of the month.

The move could give Davis an 11-day advantage in seniority over other incoming House members in choice of seats on the House floor, office space and parking.

Davis said Monday that McPike had "casually mentioned the possibility" of resigning before his term officially runs out Jan. 11, but he didn't know McPike had made up his mind until reading about it.

Davis said he will ask Madison County Democratic Chairman Mac Davis to appoint him to the seat effective Jan. 2.

"That way, hopefully I'll be ready to hit the ground running," he added.

Mac Davis said he didn't know McPike planned to resign early but said there would be "no problem" in appointing Steve Davis to the seat.

"I'm going to finish out the remaining few days of McPike's term."

"There is a definite advantage in seniority when there is such a small incoming freshman class of 25 people," House Clerk Anthony Rossi said. "It would be an advantage in selecting work spaces, being on the House floor and possibly committee assignments."

He said Davis technically would be considered a "second-term" since he would have served, although briefly, in the outgoing session of the Legislature.

Another House member who did not seek re-election, Rep.

Robert Olson, R-Broadwell, has already resigned so that his successor could take his seat early.

The outgoing Legislature is slated to meet Jan. 10, but little business is expected to be conducted except for the traditional farewell speeches.

McPike, an 18-year veteran, who was House majority leader the past 12 years, said one of the major reasons he decided to quit before the end of the term was to avoid having to listen to speeches about himself.

However, Davis said if he is in the seat by Jan. 2, "maybe they'll let me give a speech thanking Jim McPike for letting me start early."

Davis said he is a member of the House of Representatives, representing the 1st District.

Keep state office open here

The possibility that the Granite City Regional Office of the Illinois Attorney General might close should be opposed by Metro East leaders and residents.

It should be kept open because it has helped thousands of people in meaningful ways. It should be kept open because millions of dollars have been secured in justified causes — a pattern and volume offsetting the cost of the legal services by a wide margin.

And it should be kept open because good government is good politics.

The Granite City office provides convenient local state access for residents of Madison, Bond, Macoupin, Calhoun, Jersey, Greene, Montgomery and Payette counties.

The office here was established by then-Attorney General Neil Hartigan, a Democrat, in 1984. The network of 18 regional offices throughout the state provides a service that was impossible to provide before it was established and would be impossible to provide if the network is discontinued. Local offices staffed by our neighbors who know the local issues and can cut to the chase: that is a refreshing service these days when governmental bureaucracy so often impedes any meaningful help.

When current Attorney General Roland Burris — also a Democrat — took over the reins in 1991, he looked at the service and decided to keep it.

Soon Attorney General-elect Jim Ryan must consider the same issue.

Ryan, a Republican, has a number of options. He could maintain the system as it is. He could keep the system but relocate offices. Or he could completely scrap the program and return to the old method — residents writing letters to Springfield and praying that the complaint gets read, assigned and investigated.

What is government about except to provide services to residents? If Ryan decides to close the regional offices and discontinue the service Illinois residents have come to know and expect, he will make a serious mistake.

Perhaps Ryan will choose to relocate the offices to primarily Republican areas of the state. After all, those are the people who got him elected.

But perhaps Jim Ryan will be smart and maintain the office here — a primarily Democratic area — and expand his political base. Because — contrary to popular belief — most people don't vote along partisan lines. Voting is a very personal matter. Individuals vote according to who will do the most for them.

And Jim Ryan could do a lot for residents of the eight-county area here by maintaining the regional office.

It's the people

The area was bombarded with catastrophes, tragedies and emergencies last week. But throughout the various incidents, one vital resource of the community showed itself to be invaluable — the people.

When fire struck a downtown home on Monday and a gasoline station on Tuesday, firefighters reacted quickly and efficiently to control the situation and provide safety for the rest of the community.

When an explosion rocked an industrial plant in Venice last Tuesday, seriously injuring two employees, emergency responders again controlled the situation. Now that the immediate danger has passed, many in the community are rallying to assist the family of one of the victims of the blast.

When an alleged drug dealer pulled a semi-automatic weapon on the parking lot of a busy local restaurant and threatened to open fire, police officers ensured the safety of innocent bystanders by quenching the threat.

Granite City Mayor Ron Selph, when recently asked "What is the primary asset of the community?" responded without hesitation.

"It's the people," he said.

We agree with Selph. Volunteers like Mary St. Ivany, who was recently recognized for 16 years of voluntary community service; volunteers for the United Way, the Salvation Army and other agencies that provide vital human services; volunteers at St. Elizabeth Medical Center; these are what makes the Metro East strong and defines us as a community.

Race, politics are intertwined

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to thank you for allowing me to respond to the editorial on Dec. 1, 1994, concerning the coalition to support Duane Bailey for appointment to associate judge.

You say race and politics should not be used. Well, as an African-American, I feel differently and disagree with you 100 percent. Your paper is trying to belittle and make us look bad. We have every right to stand up for a young, qualified black lawyer as much as the whites who are standing and supporting the white lawyer for the same job.

We are representing concerned volunteer people of Alton, Edwardsville, Venice and Madison of Madison County.

If your paper believes that politics are not involved, you need to close down the Press-Record. We are blind and out of touch with reality. Politics run Madison County and this country. These judges are all Democrats.

They were elected on the Democratic ticket a few weeks ago. Press-Record, if this is not politics, what else can it be?

We are supporting Duane Bailey because he is African-American and qualified. Don't black groups have a right to support their own? All the judges in Madison County get great voting support in the black area. Facts and figures will show that white groups are doing the same thing, but behind closed doors. How dare you write that we have insulted the judges. That's your tricky way of trying to win the judges. You may have made some of the judges feel good and maybe some of the whites that read that, but it has no effect in the black community. We will continue to speak up, speak out and speak for Duane Bailey.

If we had rallied for a white candidate, you never would have wrote anything negative about our efforts.

Why is it that every time black groups come together for something for our community, you, the Press-Record, try to find faults. We blacks don't want crime in our community regardless if it's black or white. As long as we support whites, it's OK. No noise is made.

Press-Record, why don't you try to get to the bottom of this qualified African-American? Is it too much to ask for your support? We can't vote for Duane Bailey, only the circuit judges, who are all elected by the people at the ballot box, which is politics.

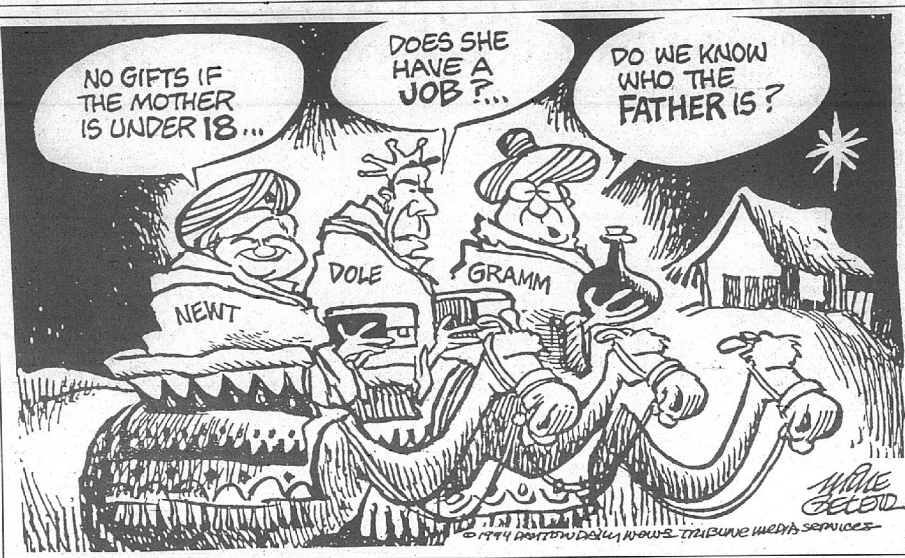

If Duane Bailey was not a candidate for the judgeship and a white female would have asked, we would have supported her on minority and qualification. Duane Bailey is the only African-American, and he is in the minority and that is the reason we are continuing to support him.

White groups have used the ballot box to remove judges and also to elect them, which is their constitutional rights. But, when black people use it, your paper disagrees.

Voting power is the only weapon black Americans have and the Constitution of the United States says we have a right to use it. But, your Press-Record seems to say we are wrong to use it. You call it a tactic; we call it power within the people.

Our late black leader had a dream. Dr. Martin Luther King's dream was to let freedom ring. I am saying let freedom ring from the McKinley Bridge in Venice. Let freedom ring from Route 3 South to Route 3 North to the Great River Road of Alton. Let freedom ring from the business district of Edwardsville. Not only that, but let freedom ring to the Madison County courtroom

Port links area to world markets

Although it is sometimes taken for granted, Madison County's location on the Mississippi River in the heart of the nation is a big plus.

One of the county's major assets is the Tri-City Regional Port District, whose harbor is situated near the southern end of the eight-mile Chain of Rocks Canal. The canal serves as the river's recreational and commercial traffic artery here.

During a Granite City organ's tour of the port in early November, officials stressed the port's access to virtually all forms of transportation.

Air access — Lambert Airport, seventh busiest in the nation, has 411 departures daily, with non-stop service to 100 cities, including London and Paris.

Lambert serves 20 million passengers and handles 100 million pounds of air freight annually.

Among general-aviation facilities are Civic Memorial Airport in Bethalto and Bi-State Parks Airport in Cahokia.

Truck access — This region is the eighth largest trucking center, as measured by trucking-industry employment, and has six Interstate highways.

There is overnight shipping to 15 states and four-day service to any point in the continental

Bill Winters

United States.

Of the 350 local, intrastate and interstate common and specialized carriers operating here, 150 carriers of general commodities provide single-carrier service coast-to-coast as well as to small communities and to plant sites.

Special services include heavy hauling, basic and fabricated steel, dry and liquid bulk, packages, documents, automobiles, household goods, grain and livestock.

Metropolitan St. Louis and southwestern Illinois contain the second largest U.S. railroad center. Fifty yards handle 10,000 rail cars a day.

Thirteen trunk-line railroads operate 28 lines radiating to all parts of North America.

There are 40 direct connections between the trunk lines, and many other connections are provided by switching and transfer railroads.

Operation of run-through trains, preblocking, and yard improvements have shortened transit times through the St. Louis terminal and for cross-river movements.

Of the 16 piggyback loading sites, four also handle containers. Because of the wide variety of services, including double-stack unit trains, all types of goods can be handled efficiently and inexpensively.

Waterways access — The Mississippi and Kaskaskia rivers connect with industrial centers in 15 states located along the Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, Illinois and Tennessee rivers and the Gulf of Mexico.

As the most northerly ice-free port on the Mississippi River system, this area provides low-cost, 12-month downriver shipping and allows for mid-continent intermodal transportation for bulk and general cargo in bargeload quantities by 25 barge lines.

Computerized shipping modes, including Lash and Seabee, have put the Tri-City Port within ready access of international markets.

In a 500-mile radius are 35 percent of the U.S. population and 32 percent of the nation's industries.

Barge transit time is two days to Memphis, three days to Vicksburg or Kansas City, four days to Chicago or Cincinnati, five days to New Orleans and seven days to Pittsburgh.

Shipments can be barged up the Illinois River to Chicago and then via the St. Lawrence Seaway to the industrial centers of Canada and northern Europe. Cargo can be barged down the Mississippi to New Orleans and, from there, to Asia, Europe, South America, Central America and Africa.

In the words of a local port spokesman, "Since its earliest days of development, the southwestern Illinois area has developed in large part as a result of its outstanding transportation advantages."

"Combined with easy access to both domestic and international markets, the multimodal transportation infrastructure afforded to area businesses makes movement of goods and materials fast, efficient and economical."

A key to the great value of waterway shipping is its cargo capacity.

A large truck can carry 26 tons, 510 bushels or 7,865 gallons. A jumbo railroad hopper car can handle 100 tons, 3,500 bushels or 20,240 gallons. But a single barge can carry 1,500 tons, 52,500 bushels or 453,000 gallons.

A 15-barge tow extends for only a quarter-mile. A unit train with the same capacity would be nearly three miles long. And an equivalent number of trucks, assuming 150 feet between each truck, would extend for more than 34 miles.

Group makes good case for black judge

The following editorial is reprinted from the Alton Telegraph. We think a coalition of black Madison County residents makes a good case for the appointment of a black to a vacant associate judgeship on the Madison County bench.

In a press conference last month, James Gray, president of the Alton Branch of the NAACP, was joined by black residents from throughout the county in arguing for greater representation of blacks among the 19 circuit and associate judges in the county.

While Gray may have overstated the percentage of black population in the county — he claimed 10 percent rather than the 6.5 percent reported in the 1990 census figures — he did not overstate black leaders' concerns about the significant impact crime has on the black population.

Gray observed that blacks are disproportionately involved in law enforcement and judicial matters, either as victims or criminal suspects, but only one of the 19 circuit or associate judges is black. The judiciary is one of innumerable institutions in our society that should only consider qualified applicants and we would expect a black applicant to pass the same muster as a white applicant. But we believe that public input should not be ignored, particularly at a time when public suspicion of political cronyism is at its height.

We hope the judges of the circuit will heed black leaders' call to expand that segment of the community's involvement in the administration of justice.

IBA holds meeting

The Illinois Baptist Association held its annual meeting at the First Southern Baptist Church in Alton Nov. 2-4. There were 776 registered messengers and a total of more than 1,200 in attendance.

Pastor of Immanuel Baptist church in Benton, Roger Ellsworth, was elected the new IBSA president. Pastor Eugene Gibson of the Mission of Faith Baptist Church in Chicago was elected vice president. Those selected were Marti Bingham, recording secretary, and Art Foster, assistant recording secretary.

Inspirational messages were delivered by Jim Henry, Southern Baptist Convention president; Ken Hemphill, president of Southwestern Theological Seminary; Charles Fuller, pastor of First Baptist Church of Roanoke, Va.; Gene Wilson, Illinois Baptist State Association executive director; and Tim Lewis, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church in Troy.

Eight resolutions were adopted. Metro Baptist Church in Edwardsville was accepted into the Illinois Baptist State Association.

Class visits shrine

Members of the Winsome class of the Suburban Baptist Church visited the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows recently and had dinner in the shrine restaurant. The group returned to the home of Jim and Darlene Cox for their class meeting and Christmas party. A white elephant gift exchange was held.

Enjoying the evening were Ben and Donna Ward, Gene and Doris Ross, Jim and Darlene Cox, Ralph and Verna Price, Wesley and Betsy Talcott, George and Louie Layton, Bob and Juanita Carter and Ralph and Laydene Wilson.

Local sisters return

Sonie Horton and her sister, Laura Reynolds of Kankakee, Ill., who is visiting Horton, have returned from visiting their other sisters last week. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Ed Robinson and family in Metropolis, Ill., and then in Boaz, Ky., they visited John and Marsh Workman. The trip ended with a visit to Arman John and Dawn Reynolds of Aultitz Air Base, Omaha, Neb., where they enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner.

Remembering loved ones

Associates and visitors may write the name of a loved one they would like remembered on a dove and place it on the memorial Christmas tree located near the Madison Avenue entrance of St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The doves will be available through Dec. 23. The tree will remain on display until Jan. 7. There is no charge for this service.

The tree is made possible by the National Council and the Granite City Fork Council 60 of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of Illinois.

Underwater recovery unit expanding

By Hilley Schulte
Staff writer

It's not just a sport to them anymore. It's hard work, it's a commitment, and it is becoming even more important.

Bubblemasters Underwater Recovery Diving Team, or BURT, is beefing up its training to include rescue as well as recovery diving.

Fred Sarrach, safety and training, explained that training now stresses the quick response needed for underwater rescues. "Because of winter and hypothermia, we have to change our thought processes on the time it takes to get to the scene. Everyone always hopes there's going to be a rescue, but by the time the police get there and then call us, there's a big delay."

"We're trying to market ourselves to automatically be thought of. The quicker we know, the quicker we're there," Sarrach said.

Radio would also help quicken the response time.

"I've been trying to solicit money for a radio package. It would include mainly Madison County, where we'd hopefully be 911 equipped. If a call came out from any city agency, our tone alert system would go on also," Sarrach said.

He explained that radio would save time. Instead of calling the volunteers and going to the BURT station, the volunteers could go directly to the scene.

Sarrach said BURT needs to generate $5,000 to $8,000 to get the radio package and be part of the 911 emergency call out. He said he's gotten a commitment for close to $1,500 from various banks and a business.

Sarrach said BURT, a non-profit organization operating mostly on donations, also needs funding for equipment.

"We don't need fancy, high-tech stuff. We just need to be safe in the river," he said.

"It's taken us 8½ years to get our buoys done, so maybe we can get the money for the radio system too," Sarrach continued.

Most of BURT's funding comes from bingo games. With the Madison County Fireman's Association, BURT holds a few bingos in Collinsville, Venice, Bethalto and East Alton every year.

BURT was formed in 1970 as a spin-off of Bubblemasters Dive Club. The dive club is still going strong, and BURT has steadily grown since its birth.

BURT currently has almost 40 members, 31 of whom are certified divers, from Granite City, Collinsville, Alton, Mascouta, Meadowsbrook, St. Louis and Belleville.

The organization originally did work as far as western and southern Missouri, Springfield, and Lake Egypt near Carbondale.

"We'll go anywhere to help, but we mainly focus on Madison and St. Clair counties now," said Sarrach.

Sarrach said BURT is the only rescue and recovery diving team in the immediate area. BURT is ordinarily called upon by sheriff's departments, fire departments, and police departments to look for evidence that has been dumped in water.

In September, BURT was called by the Madison County Sheriff's Department to find an automobile at Holiday Shores.

BURT will also dive for individuals looking for lost tackle, and boats and motors that have sunk. The organization has also served different construction projects by diving for equipment that has been lost in the river.

BURT members practice their techniques during a training session at the Hartford Canal. In the water is Tim Underhill. On shore are Fred Sarrach, left, training officer, and Ron Yates.

"We don't get paid by anybody. The only money we get comes from people who make donations, and we have had some generous donations," said Sarrach. BURT is also called for more serious situations. During the Flood of 1993, it was called to find a body in the Chain of Rocks Canal.

Sarrach said BURT is always open to new memberships. He said people usually take scuba up as a sport, and after a couple of vacation-type dives, find themselves wanting to do more.

According to Sarrach, to be a BURT diver, one has to at least be a certified search recovery diver. However, there are also associate memberships on BURT including boat operators, equipment carriers and radio operators.

Training is ongoing at BURT. Two sessions of ground school and two sessions of water school are held each month. Each ground school session is about two or three hours long, and each water school session is eight to 10 weeks.

Sarrach said a lot of the ground school is held during the week, with water school on weekends.

"The majority of our training is in the river. In fact, the last three training operations have been behind the Casino Queen," Sarrach said.

Sarrach also said that he has informed local agencies that BURT is trained for underwater rescues, and "they've responded very well."

He said that many times the agencies take part in the training, "so they know what we're doing, and how we can help each other."

Presently, BURT has one van and two boats. The divers all carry their own equipment with them at all times.

Sarrach explained that while diving is somewhat of a sport, it's not all fun and games.

"Think of it as winter time, cold and frigid. You're in a bunch of mud, it's black and you can't see. It's swift, especially in the river," he said.

Diving teams consist of a primary diver, safety diver and qualified line tender. Together, they comb the lake bottom in one of six patterns, said Sarrach.

Line tenders communicate with the diver by tugs on a rope attached to the diver. Line tenders also make the decision to send the safety diver if he or she senses a problem with the primary diver.

"They are going backwards into a lot of situations. They feel with their feet and thighs. The diver is tethered to a line tender, and the diver is nothing more than the tender's hand," Sarrach said. With all of the hard, and sometimes scary, work, some may wonder why anyone would bother doing it.

"Somebody has to do it. Everybody owes society something. I know they don't do it for the benefits of BURT, which are nil," Sarrach said.

Sarrach said BURT is always looking for new members, but there is a catch.

"Anyone thinking of joining will be committed. There are certain functions that if they don't adhere to, they will be asked to leave," Sarrach said.

Some of BURT's current members have been involved since 1970. Sarrach believes the main reason for turnover is that some don't realize the commitment involved when they first become join BURT.

For more information about BURT, or to make a donation, call Sarrach at 624-2953 or 345-1446, or call BURT Lt. Marjorie Crockarell at 876-7386.

Revenue loss to top $1 million

County to feel effect of senior citizen property tax freeze

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Department of Revenue is predicting area local governments in Madison County will lose almost $1 million in the first year of a senior citizen property tax assessment freeze.

A property tax burden of about $558,000 also will be shifted from elderly homeowners to others in the first year, according to the department.

Late Thursday the Revenue Department began faxing to county assessors copies of an application form and information on the new law that took effect Tuesday.

Under the new law the equalized assessed valuation of homeowners who are at least 65 years old and whose annual household income does not exceed $35,000 is frozen at the 1993 level, plus the value of any improvements.

The law included a deadline that expired

Thursday to apply for the freeze for 1994 real estate taxes payable next year. However, the measure did not become law until Tuesday afternoon when the House followed the Senate in overriding Gov. Jim Edgar's veto.

The Revenue Department has advised county assessors to consult with their state's attorney and other county officials on whether they should accept applications beyond Dec. 1. Several assessors indicated they intend to extend the deadline. Department of Revenue spokesman Mike Klemons said.

County officials also will be responsible for verifying applicants' age and income eligibility and can require they bring in copies of tax documents, Klemons said.

After the first year, the law specifies that applications must be filed annually by May 1 to be eligible for the freeze, but some lawmakers have indicated they may propose new deadlines next year in follow-up legislation. The Revenue Department also released projections of how the freeze could impact local governments in each county.

Real estate tax bills of eligible elderly homeowners could still go up in the case of local governments not at their maximum tax rate or in the case of home-rule cities where there are no rate caps.

In Madison County, the revenue department forecasts a loss of $886,494 to taxing districts next year while another $379,926 would be shifted to different property owners.

Those figures would gradually increase and by 2002, the loss is projected at $8.3 million with another $3.5 million being shifted to other property owners, according to the department.

Cemetery vandals 'sick'

Vandals who desecrated a grave in a Fort Russell Township cemetery may have been trying to enter more than a casket.

"We're not sure why they did it, but we think it was some form of initiation-type thing that got out of hand," Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchich said.

Vandals knocked over 25 to 30 grave markers Saturday night at St. James Cemetery on Illinois Route 159 near Edwardsville and dug into the grave of Marie Zocher, who was buried in August. They used a separate tombstone to break through the concrete vault and damage the casket.

"We've had some destruction of tombstones but no one has ever attempted to dig up a coffin," Churchich said. "I don't understand the reasoning behind this. They don't realize that this is such a terrible waste — some of those were limestone markers and can never be replaced."

Churchich declined to speculate on what type of group would have such an initiation.

"This is about as sick as I've seen as far as cemetery vandalism," Churchich said.

A St. Ann, Mo., police officer who stays abreast of satanic cult activity said he doubts devil worship was behind the vandalism. "It doesn't sound too satanic to me. I can't see them digging up a grave to get a cadaver. It's too easy to get a cadaver from schools and hospitals," St. Ann Police Sgt. Jim Mantle said. "I try not to give the devil his due when he shouldn't take credit for it."

Churchich said deputies have some leads in the case and his office is devoting special attention to the crime.

"I want to make an apprehension and I would like to see some serious repercussions," Churchich said. "I want to make an example of these people. We've got to stop this somewhere. These people don't even honor the dead."

Churchich said cemetery vandalism, such as knocking down headstones, is common and difficult to stop.

HUDOKs $3 million for work

By Mike Viola
Staff writer

More than $3 million has been awarded by the federal government to improve public facilities and housing in East St. Louis.

The block grant will be used as part of a campaign to rid urban blight from the community and replace it with better public facilities.

"This HUD (Housing and Urban Development) commitment comes at a crucial time for East St. Louis as businesses and residents unite to overcome the hurdles facing the community," said U.S. Sen. Paul Simon.

The grant for $3,090,786 will be used to improve public facilities, housing, economic development and infrastructure needs.

Ingrid Anderson, spokeswoman for the city's Community Development Block Grant office, said the funds will be split into a variety of programs.

Close to $1 million is expected to be used to improve public facilities throughout the city and $800,000 will be used to clear land of urban decay.

"So many areas will be helped by this including social services, infrastructure, streets and bringing more business to the city," Anderson said.

The CDBG grant will be used by the city and not the East St. Louis Housing Authority which is in the midst of a massive program to improve the housing stock in East St. Louis.

Presently, the Housing Authority is in the process of demolishing 668 housing units which have become eyesores and breeding grounds for crime.

Two high-rises at the Orr-Weathers Development have already been torn down, eliminating 214 housing units.

The demolition plans also call for 244 single family homes and 210 row house units to be demolished throughout the city.

HUD will allow East St. Louis to build 668 new housing units to replace the demolished buildings. The East St. Louis Housing Authority already has approval from HUD to construct 95 row houses, 58 semi-detached homes and 15 single family homes at a cost of about $14 million.

Since 1991, the local Housing Authority has been working with HUD to line up funding to remove worthless buildings and construct new homes.

State officials have praised the Housing Authority for its work to rejuvenate the city through HUD programs and are now praising city officials for their work with HUD to improve living conditions for local residents.

"I applaud the initiative of East St. Louis in using the block grant funds as part of a comprehensive effort to attack the problems facing the city," said U.S. Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun.

Renovations make Grand Marais quite a course

By Mike Viola
Staff writer

Last year when golfers used the Grand Marais Golf Course in Centerville, they had a flat course with deteriorated greens, barren fairways and a clubhouse that was just a step above a shed.

Today, golfers have a rolling course, smooth greens, well-seeded fairways and a state of the art clubhouse.

And Willie Williams, president of the course, said only half of the renovations are in place.

"It's already a totally different course and I think people who haven't been out here for a while would be shocked to see how much better things are," Williams said.

The present management team of the course took over operation of Grand Marais in January with a 25-year lease from the Illinois Department of Conservation.

The course is located in Frank Holt State Park on the border of Centerville and East St. Louis.

Williams noted that the developers inherited a course that was many times unplayable. Whenever it rained just slightly, much of the course would flood.

Once they had gained control of the course, developers quickly began work on the drainage system so that any future improvements to the course wouldn't be washed away in the rain.

Over the past year, greens were enlarged through the course, 11 lakes were added, and each fairway has been given definition by building hills out of the dirt removed to create the new lakes.

Two holes were totally eliminated at the course, replaced by two brand new holes.

"Throughout all of this we never had to shut down play because of the construction," Williams said.

Last month developers also opened a new 9,600 square foot clubhouse which provides services not only for golfers but can be used for banquets, wedding receptions, business meeting and other special events.

The clubhouse sits on the largest lake at the course and offers an excellent view of the St. Louis skyline.

In addition to the physical improvements of the course, Williams said the new managers of the course have also created the Ted Savage Craig Crossley Youth Golf Program to introduce local, urban children to the world of golf.

Youngsters are taught not only how to play golf but are involved in all aspects of running a golf course including how to manage the pro shop and work on landscaping and course maintenance.

Although only about half of the improvements are in place, Williams said word-of-mouth is already attracting more people to discover the new course and clubhouse.

S. Roxana code called unfair

SOUTH ROXANA — A Brighton couple say the village's new property maintenance code is unfair.

Shirley and Douglas Farmer attended South Roxana's Village Board meeting last week to complain about the ordinance, which is designed to crack down on absentee landlords who fail to keep up their property.

"We see where we'll have to pay for our rental properties to be inspected. We'd like to know if you plan to do anything about neighbors who won't clean up their property," Douglas Farmer said.

The code adopted Nov. 10 requires a change of occupancy in dwellings, businesses or other buildings. An occupancy permit is required before utilities can be turned on. The inspection fee is $25.

If code violations are discovered, repairs must be made and the property reinspected before a permit will be issued.

"We have a problem with the house next door to our property on Broadway," Shirley Farmer said. "We'd like for you to look at these pictures and you'll see what we mean."

The Farmers showed Mayor Danny Wilcox and trustees more than a dozen photographs of a house in the 1400 block of Broadway. The photos showed a car on blocks, scattered lawn furniture and toys, trash and other debris.

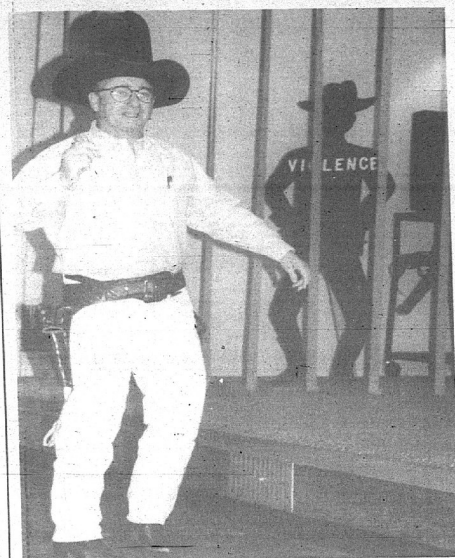

"We've called the police about it, but nothing was done," Shirley Farmer said. "We had to cut the grass next door to one of our places before we could rent the house."

Wilcox held up the photographs and said, "This sort of thing is one of the reasons we passed that ordinance."

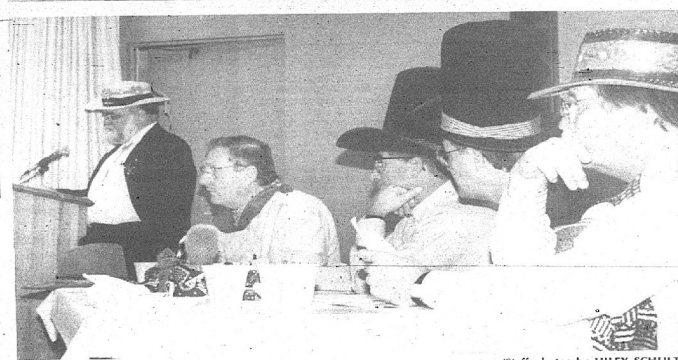

Trustee John Ward told the Farmers it is difficult to force people to clean up their property.

"There's been cases where we actually got the people in court and the judge said, 'One man's junk is another man's treasure,'" Ward said.

Success — "Rawhide Rich" Kearns, a team leader, prepares to throw a dart during the Tri-Cities Area United Way December campaign report meeting. Above at right, Jan Quarton, executive director of the United Way, gives a summary of this year's United Way donation campaign, as George Cook, United Way labor liaison, rides in to listen. The local drive collected $1,098,008, topping its goal of $1,075,000. THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

When a divorced parent has custody of the children, should this parent be allowed to move out of Illinois? This question is often faced by trial courts throughout the State, and in these cases it must be determined what is in the "best interests of the children." A recent case will help illustrate the factors to be considered in these matters.

In this case, the husband and wife were married in 1978. Three daughters were born of the marriage, and at the time of the divorce (dissolution of marriage), the husband and wife agreed to joint custody of the children. The wife, however, was the residential parent and the husband received specified visitation, including June 1 to August 15 of each year.

Approximately two years after the divorce, the wife remarried, and her new husband eventually accepted an assignment in Ames, Iowa. This was an excellent business opportunity for him, but it was 404 miles from where the wife and ex-husband formerly lived. The wife petitioned the Court to remove the children from Illinois, but the trial judge denied this petition. The trial judge noted that one of the daughters was unwilling to move and that the ex-husband would be unable to spend as much time with his daughters if the move were allowed.

The mother appealed this decision. The Appellate Court noted that the following factors were to be considered in determining whether removal was in the children's best interests: (1) the likelihood the move would enhance the quality of life of the custodial parent and children; (2) the custodial parent's motives in resisting it; (3) whether a reasonable visitation schedule could be reached if removal were allowed; and (4) the harm to the children which could result from the move.

The Appellate Court reversed the decision of the trial court. The Court noted that the natural father could still exercise quality visitation with his children. It was also emphasized that the stepfather promised to go to great lengths to make sure the children would call the natural father and would visit him on a regular basis. Therefore, in this case, the mother was allowed to remove the children from Illinois.

and lobbyists as well as compiling data about each base.

"We consider the cost to be minuscule in comparison to the loss the region will suffer if either base closes," Costello said.

Scott would appear to be safe from cuts. The federal government has pledged hundreds of millions of dollars to upgrade the Air Force Base — one of only nine military installations in the world that is home to a unified command and make it a military civilian airport.

The Price Support Center would seem to be safe as well since the U.S. Coast Guard recently relocated a unit to the base.

And Dixon's presence as chair of the BRAC Commission would also seem to bode well for the local effort.

But Costello said none of those facts will really matter in the decision-making process.

"We have to worry — or no less — reason to worry than any other community in the country with military installations," Costello said.

"Joint use will have no bearing whatsoever (on the decision)," he said.

"From day one I have said that joint use will have no impact whatsoever on the military mission at Scott. If it did, we would not have gone forward with joint use," Costello said.

He said that the BRAC review will have no bearing at all on the $60 million Patriot's Landing housing complex planned for Scott.

Madison County Board Chairman Nellie Hagnauer said he is worried about the Price Center, which has operated in Granite City since 1942 and has twice survived after being identified by DOD for closure.

"I can't really say why, but I am worried," Hagnauer said.

"We've got a big job ahead. We can't make this a Price versus Scott thing or a Scott versus Price thing," Hagnauer said.

He said officials will emphasize the Price Center's strategic location, ideal for supply storage due to its proximity to infrastructure providing rail, highway, air and water transportation.

Bob Wydra, manager of the Tri-City Regional Port District, located adjacent to the Price Center, is spearheading the Madison County planning contingent.

Costello said that the only advantage Dixon's role will provide to this region is that Dixon, a former member of the Senate Armed Services subcommittee, is familiar with the role both bases play in military strategy.

"But he will not be able to keep them off the list. It will be done on merit and merit only," Costello said.

Barcic said the local effort must emphasize "not how much we need (the military), but what the St. Louis region — and specifically Madison and St. Clair counties — can do for the military."

"We must present the message that the nation, not just the region, will be weakened by these closings," Barcic said.

Shapley rarely speaks up during council discussions. "I may not use it too often, but when I do, I want me three minutes," Shapley said after the meeting.

The City Council would not have 14 aldermen — two for each of the seven wards — but currently has 15 because of a quick change by redistricting three years ago.

The city's municipal code requires "the concurrence of a majority of all members elected to the council, including the mayor," for passage of an ordinance, resolution or motion.

When the mayor is added to the 15 aldermen, the council contains 16 elected members. Nine votes are needed for a majority.

So even though a majority of the aldermen voted to limit debate, the matter may never become law.

Aldermen Jim Miller, Juana Gravelly, Nick Petrillo and Bob Shipley opposed the amendment.

Shapley said he is not sure if the council will vote on the amendment after the meeting.

Parney said that Selph has done an admirable job of conducting meetings and keeping control of discussions.

"If everybody believes that discussion is bad, then let's get rid of the (television) camera," Parney said.

Ward 5 Alderman Eddie Asadorian said he opposed the amendment because he thinks all aldermen should be allowed to speak if they wish.

Voting in favor of the time limitation amendment were Crites and Aldermen Casmer, Skubish, Bob Page, Foster, Fredrick, Lorton, Pulley, MacWarfield, Walter Milton and Kim Affolter.

Tarpoiff, Partney, Asadorian and Aldermen Jim Miller, Juana Gravelly, Nick Petrillo and Bob Shipley opposed the amendment.

Crites said she introduced the legislation in order to make meetings more businesslike and professional.

Council meetings, which begin at 7 p.m., were until several years ago often conducted in an hour. But the city began televising meetings on the community access cable channel and meetings now often last until 10 p.m. or later.

Neither Selph nor his predecessor, Van De Cruse, had been a strict enforcer of the decorum ordinance. But longer council meetings — during which some have spoken for four or five minutes on a single subject and some for as long as fifteen minutes on one topic — have prompted Selph to begin using his gavel more often lately.

"It is unfortunate that the action has to be taken to make this necessary," Crites said.

Ward 2 Alderman Craig Tarpoiff, Partney, Asadorian and Aldermen Jim Miller, Juana Gravelly, Nick Petrillo and Bob Shipley opposed the amendment.

Shapley rarely speaks up during council discussions. "I may not use it too often, but when I do, I want me three minutes," Shapley said after the meeting.

The 1994-95 levy must be passed by Dec. 27.

In other proposed levy appropriations, Nighoshossian noted that there will nothing levied for general corporate purposes.

A total of $1,889,033 was appropriated in the proposed tax levy. That includes $100 for bridge fund, $18,500 for buildings fund, $30,462 for the building inspector department and $7,490 for the city clerk.

In other funds, $45,840 was appropriated for the executive department, $37,920 for the legislative department, $83,840 for the comptroller, $25,000 for contingency and $2,800 for emergency services.

A total of $173,100 was proposed for the fire department, $14,550 for the health and human services department, $64,380 for the legal department, $85,000 for the industrial park, $182,000 for the police department, $11,750 for the police and fire commissioners, $119,300 for refuse and $71,000 for street lights and fire hydrants.

The proposed levy is currently on display with the city.

With estimated revenues, special tax levies and grants, many of the funds will take back some or all of what is levied.

These funds are the industrial park, the legal department, the police department, streets and sewers, I.M.R.F. and Social Security, liability insurance, motor fuel funds, the library, playground and recreation, the alarm department, the shopping center and police pension.

'Living Nativity' display at Calvary Assembly

Calvary Pentecostal Assembly will present its outdoor "Living Nativity", Dec. 17-19. The event will run from 6 to 9 p.m. each evening.

The church is located at 4650 Maryville Road, in Granite City. The nativity will feature full costumed characters, along with farm animals, set in a rustic stable. Mary, Joseph, the wise men and shepherds depict the setting of Jesus' birth. Special music and readings presented will chronicle the Bible account. This year, strolling carolers will be providing a festive atmosphere.

Complimentary hot chocolate will be provided for the visitors, while listening to the familiar carols, watching the animals or while talking with a neighbor from the community.

About 60 volunteers from the various ministries of the church share in this community event. Pastor Mark Maynard commented, "This is our gift to the community. We want this to be a community event that can be enjoyed by the entire family and remind us of the real reason for Christmas."

In the past years, hundreds of people have visited the live nativity.

You can receive additional information by calling the church office at 931-4106. The event is free and open to the public.

Come To Granite City's Credit Union For The Holiday Shopper Survival Kit (It will fit right in your wallet!)

The credit union's Holiday Shopper Survival Kit features two components that no merry gentleman or woman should be without:

FLASH ATM Card

Credit union members can use the FLASH automated teller machine card at more than 100,000 machines worldwide. Make deposits at the FLASH machines located at the credit union offices, then look for these logos when shopping, to withdraw cash anytime, anywhere:

Members can also make balance inquiries, transfers and more while they're on the go!

12.72% APR VISA

With interest rates on the rise, it makes sense to purchase holiday gifts with one of the lowest-rate credit cards around.

Members will enjoy our VISA because it has NO annual fee or monthly service charges, but it does come with a 25-day, interest-free grace period. That's like getting an interest-free loan when the bill is paid by the statement due date!

Call the Telephone Center at 797-7993 for information about credit union membership and the Holiday Shopper Survival Kit!

FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Werner

1944 and 1994

Werner - 50 Years

Ray and Lucille Werner of Granite City celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Nov. 12 at Ravanelli's Restaurant in Granite City.

Ray Werner and the former Lucille Moehe were married Nov. 11, 1944, at Concordia Lutheran Church in Granite City. The couple have three children: Bill Werner of Blue Springs, Mo.; Lela Voigt of Collinsville and Randy Werner of Granite City. They have six grandchildren: Michelle, Eric, Tom, Randy, Matthew and William.

Those attending the celebration were Bill and Dona Werner and children, Michelle and Eric; Tom and Lela Voigt and son, Tom; Randy and Paula Werner and sons, Randy, Matthew and William; Werner; Elmer and Vernelle Werner; Evelyn and Henry Kuhlman; Marvin and Evelyn Moehe; and Amy Van Hoose.

Johnson-Engelmann

Cynthia Ann Engelmann and David Edward Johnson were married Aug. 13, 1994, at Evangelical United Church of Christ in Highland by the Rev. Susan P. Sickelka.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Robert and Betty Engelmann of Highland. A 1985 graduate of Highland High School and a 1989 graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, she is employed with St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, as a registered nurse.

The groom is the son of Lloyd and Barbara Johnson of Belleville. A 1978 graduate of Belleville Township High School West, a 1984 graduate of Jewish Hospital School of Nursing and a 1994 graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, he is also employed with St. Elizabeth Medical Center and by Anderson Hospital, Maryville, as a registered nurse.

Sherry Wiegmann of Breese, cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Darla Nowak, sister of the groom; Beth Kruse; Kim

David and Cynthia Johnson

Sedlack and Julie Hamilton.

Dennis Watt of Freeburg was the best man. The groomsmen were Brian Engelmann, brother of the bride; Dr. Chris Cruz; Dr. Rich Nicol and Kevin Nowak, brother-in-law of the groom.

The junior bridesmaid was Kara Johnson, daughter of the groom. The ushers were Andy Chamberlain of Collinsville and Chris Bingham of Troy, both cousins of the bride.

Joan Schuetz was the organist and Diane Dietz was the soloist. Following a honeymoon in Hawaii, the couple reside in Troy.

Eric and Tricia Achenbach

Achenbach-Blake

Tricia Elizabeth Blake and Lt. Eric Roy Achenbach were married Sept. 3, 1994, in Kingston, Jamaica, by the Rev. Orville Noll.

The bride is the daughter of Donald and Jennifer Blake of Kingston. She is a 1993 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

The groom is the son of Phillip and Joan Achenbach of Granite City and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reinhardt of Granite City. He is also a 1993 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point and a lieutenant in the United States Army, stationed at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas.

The flower girl was Talia Kong and Blake Roper, nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer. Songs were sung by Geoff Roper, brother-in-law of the bride, and Christopher McClure. Amy Antoff, sister of the groom, gave a reading at the wedding.

A reception was held in a garden setting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lopez of Kingston.

Following a honeymoon at the Grand Lido Resort in Negril, Jamaica, the couple reside at Fort Bliss in El Paso, Texas.

Multi-year high school reunion held

Kathy Dohnal covers the Madison-Venice scene for the Press-Record Journal. Articles can be sent to 2188 Lynch or she can be contacted at 797-2077.

A multi-year Madison High School reunion for graduates from the years 1936 to 1949 was held Nov. 12 at the Quality Inn in Collinsville. More than 400 graduates, spouses and guests attended.

Bill Arnold of Palos Verdes, Calif., served as master of ceremonies. The event began with a 6:30 p.m. get-acquainted hour followed by a buffet dinner with dancing to midnight to Bill Berutti's five-piece combo.

States represented at the reunion were Alabama, New York, Arizona, North Carolina, California, Ohio, Florida, Oregon, Georgia, Tennessee, Illinois, Texas, Indiana, Virginia, Iowa, Washington, Louisiana, West Virginia, Missouri, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The invocation was given by Rev. Jim Lybarger, a graduate.

The planning committee included Frank Dutko, Lillian Barbieri, Vera Smolar, Ruth Polson, Dely Gagich, Georgia Mircheff, Billy Gitchoff, Van Stuart, Winnie Sasyk, Hainee Harris, Minna Champion, Steve Konkovich, Mamie Nowicki and Frank Bud Hatcher, chairman. The event was co-chaired by Irene Hatcher.

Three former high school teachers present were Russell Shaver, Lillian Delphs and Miss Bethel, who taught in the 1940s. The reunion was videotaped. The demolition of the old Madison High School was taped as well.

On Friday, Nov. 11, an informal get-together was held in the Dome at Quality Inn from 7 to 11 p.m. On Sunday, Nov. 13, a breakfast brunch was held at the Raintree Restaurant in the Quality Inn.

The photo above shows the Madison High School concrete sign that was attached to the old high school, located on Third Street in Madison, which was recently demolished. The more-than-100-pound sign was taken to the Quality Inn by a truck provided by John Hammy, the Madison School Board president. It was placed near the front entrance to the Quality Inn.

Steve Konkovich provided small portions of brick from the now-demolished school in containers as souvenirs. Larger bricks were also given, some as door stops with varnished wood stands and brass plating for inscription.

The school was built in 1914 and the gymnasium in 1929. Many of the bricks were salvaged by the Used Brick Company in East St. Louis and will be sold for construction of new homes (the old brick look on new homes) — so the school lives on. Who knows, the new house you buy or look at may have the old Madison School bricks.

Hopper-Georgieff

Rhonda Lynn Hopper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hopper of Canton, Ill., and Edward Thomas Georgieff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Georgieff of rural Canton, have announced their engagement.

Hopper, of Peoria, is a 1989 graduate of Canton High School and a 1994 graduate of Butler University College of Pharmacy in Indianapolis. She is employed as a registered pharmacist at St. Francis Medical Center in Peoria.

Georgieff is a 1987 graduate of Canton High School, a 1989 graduate of Spoon River College and a 1992 graduate of Western Illinois University. He is employed as an assistant manager with

Rhonda Hopper and Edward Georgieff

Menard's in Pekin, Ill. He is the grandson of Eva Gitcho of Madison and the late Tom and Tasa Georgieff of Granite City and the late Thomas Gitcho of Madison. The couple will be married May 20, 1995, at the First Presbyterian Church in Canton.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Interesting tales in the bleachers

Often this corner has referred to the Illinois High School Association's attempt to "Pack The Place" at prep sporting events.

I came upon another reason to attend high school events — whether related to sports or not — recently night while watching Althoff and Granite City in a girls basketball game.

IT'S THE PEOPLE you meet and the stories — even if told just during a timeout or halftime.

At Althoff, I had the opportunity to converse with Irvin Keim, longtime Belleville resident and father of Blessed Sacrament Grade School teacher Jim Keim; and Jim Gormie, the well-known Belleville attorney whose daughter Jill is the Althoff point guard.

Sure, there's a connection between Jim Keim, the director of Belleville Diocese sports and longtime Blessed Sacrament basketball coach, and state golf champ Jill Gormie.

The stories, though, pertain to the elder Keim and Jill's brother Matt, who distinguished himself as a linebacker at Washington U. in St. Louis.

NOW 37, IRVIN Keim, known as "Doc," has been mentioned here previously for holding the record for running around the square in downtown Belleville in a record 56 seconds in 1925.

"The guys at the cigar store and chili shop used to make some dumb bets in those days," Doc said. "One guy tried to beat me and almost got killed because of the traffic and the street car tracks."

An outstanding shortstop with the Swansea (baseball) Indians and Swift softball teams, Keim made the run around the square on the sidewalk that surrounded the fountain area in such a manner that neither traffic nor the tracks could stop him from winning three times for a dollar each on the same evening.

"That would be like winning a hundred bucks today," beamed Keim while sitting next to his wife of 67 years, Velma (nee Schulline).

FOR JIM GORMIE, proud moments continue from golf to football to basketball, but one of the most interesting stories of the Washington U. season was in a victory over Case Western Reserve.

That's when in the middle of one of Case Western's offensive series, the highly touted Case quarterback called timeout because of Matt Gormie, the Althoff graduate who this year became the Battle Bear all-time leader in tackles.

According to a scribe friend of mine who attended the game, Matt first called to a teammate to guard against a fullback draw play — a move that led to a loss when the ballcarrier was almost hit immediately after the QB's handoff.

On the next play, as the quarterback began calling signals, Matt yelled to a cornerback to be prepared for No. 83 on a pass pattern.

That's when the Case Western QB called timeout, walked to the sidelines and informed his coach that Washington U., and Gormie in particular, had their plays.

Such action and the ability to hit despite weighing 180 pounds are reason enough to explain why Matt has received consideration from Canadian Football League teams.

Flyers come calling for SWC opener

By Rob Raphael

Two teams still trying to find the right combination of players will face off Friday at Memorial Gymnasium. The Warriors (0-2) will host the East St. Louis Flyers (2-2) in the Southwestern Conference opener for each school.

THE WARRIORS AND Flyers split their season series last year, as East Side struggled to a 4-6 conference mark and a 5-21 record overall, while Granite City was 6-4 and 15-12. Ten of the Flyers' losses, however, were forfeits due to the Tyrone Caswell eligibility case.

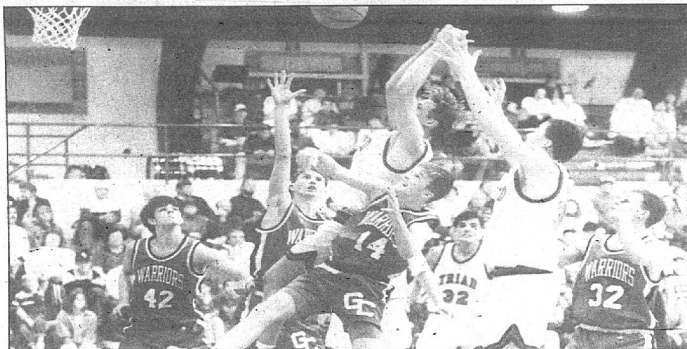

Granite City has lost to Springfield and Triad. East Side beat Lovejoy 80-37 on Friday after struggling in a Thanksgiving weekend tournament in Galesburg. The Flyers seemed to get their game in gear against Lovejoy.

"We finally played the game at our pace," said first-year head coach Dwight Howard. "We got a lead on them and gradually increased it as time went on. We finally got on top of somebody. Our first three games, we were playing from behind."

Howard isn't sure what he will get from the Warriors, whom he has not had a chance to scout.

"I KNOW THEY lost (point guard) Darren Mosty, and that will hurt them," he said. "But from what I know, they have some people that can shoot the ball, so we will have to be sure and move on defense to cover their outside shooters."

Granite City coach John Van Buskirk said he also hasn't seen the Flyers.

Steve Logan of the Warriors (14) battles with two Triad players for a rebound last Friday in St. Jacob. Also there for GCHS are Greg Vaughn (42) and Jay Simpson (32).

ward to guard, he's going up against players a little quicker than he's used to. But DeMarcus wants the ball, and I've told him that there will come a time when we need him to take charge for two or three minutes at a time. He just needs to be patient."

"I only saw Chapman last year," Van Buskirk said. "I'm not sure what to expect from him."

Junior guard Jay Simpson is leading the Warriors attack, averaging nearly 18 points per 5 points per game. The Flyers have received balanced scoring, and several players have stepped up at one time or another to assume the scoring role.

EAST SIDE ALSO has forward guard DeMarcus Chapman returning this year. Chapman's role has changed somewhat this year, Howard said. But he added that the 6-3 senior is adjusting well.

"He's passing the ball very well, and he's improving on defense. Having moved from forward to guard, he's going up against players a little quicker than he's used to. But DeMarcus wants the ball, and I've told him that there will come a time when we need him to take charge for two or three minutes at a time. He just needs to be patient."

game. Van Buskirk, who seemed displeased with his team's performance in the first half of the Triad game, said he's considering making lineup changes for Friday's game.

"WE HAVEN'T MADE any of those decisions yet, but there will probably be some changes," he said.

The Warriors also host Edwardsville on Saturday. The Tigers are 2-0 and ranked fourth in the Journal large school poll. They are strong inside with 6-8, 290-pound Antonio "Chico" Brown and 6-7 Chris Wright.

Tigers rally to beat Trojans, 58-48

By Rob Raphael

It was a tale of two halves.

In the first half Tuesday, the Madison Trojans played a very disciplined style of basketball and the Edwardsville Tigers couldn't hit their shots. But in the second half, the Tigers got the hot hand and the Trojans couldn't hit the broad side of a barn.

EDWARDSVILLE WENT ON to defeat Madison 58-48 in a non-conference game played at the Madison Middle School.

The Tigers (2-0) made just seven of 23 shots (30 percent) in the first half as the Trojans (3-5) took a 27-23 lead into the locker room. Actually, Madison made only 12 of 36 shots in the first half, but that was good compared to their troubles in the second half.

The Trojans missed outside shots, inside shots and even layups en route to an 8-for-36 shooting performance in the final two quarters.

"I don't know what happened," said a perplexed Madison coach Al Collins. "We were in the game for at least the first half, and then nothing would fall for us. I can't explain it. It was

Military

Sean Terrell

Army Reserve Private Sean D. Terrell has completed basic training at Fort Jackson in Columbia, S.C.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

Terrell is the son of Allison M. Terrell of Venice.

Herbert Grammer

Army Private Herbert J. Grammer has completed basic training at Fort Knox, Fort Knox, Ky.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

Grammer is the son of Glenda F. Grammer and Herbert F. Grammer, both of Granite City.

He is a 1994 graduate of Granite City High School.

Brian Patton

Navy Petty Officer First Class Brian K. Patton, son of James G. Patton and Sandra Archer of Granite City, recently returned to the Persian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS George Washington in response to yet another crisis in Iraq.

Patton is one of more than 5,000 sailors and Marines assigned to the carrier and its air wing. He recently traveled from the Mediterranean Sea, through the Suez Canal and Red Sea to the Persian Gulf.

Demonstrating the flexibility and mobility of forward-deployed naval forces, the 1,092-foot-long USS George Washington deployed in May from Norfolk, Va., to the Adriatic Sea off the coast of Bosnia-Herzegovina. In September, Patton returned to the Adriatic to support NATO operations when the most recent Iraqi contingency caused President Clinton to order the ship to return immediately to the Middle East.

With 80 tactical aircraft aboard, USS George Washington presents an extremely mobile and formidable presence, capable of moving more than 700 miles a day.

Patton and fellow crew members join other deployed naval forces that have been in the Gulf supporting the "no-fly zone" over southern Iraq since the end of the Persian Gulf War. While deployed, Patton has visited England, France, Greece, Turkey, Israel and the United Arab Emirates.

Today, U.S. aircraft carriers and other ships are on station around the world from Haiti to the Persian Gulf and Western Pacific Ocean. These forces can dominate coastal and ocean areas while projecting sustained power and presence wherever U.S. interests are involved, operating forward from the seas.

Patton, a 1977 graduate of Granite City High School North, joined the Navy in November 1978.

Holy Family team wins 1st place

The Holy Family School speech team won the first place trophy at the St. Elizabeth Academy 10th Invitational Speech Tournament held recently in St. Louis.

Fifteen Illinois and Missouri schools participated in the tournament. Holy Family has won top honors the past three years. Margaret Holland-Pennell is the speech team coach.

Award winners were: Sarah Johnson and Bobby Bosslet, dramatic interpretation; Amy Pennell and Sara Halbrook, humorous interpretation; Rosanna Gordon and Meelea Dickerman, dramatic duet acting; and Geoff Edwards and Brian Hopkins, humorous duet acting. Amy Pennell, Edwards and Hopkins all received perfect scores.

WCTU breakfast meeting Saturday

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met Saturday, Nov. 19, for an 8:30 a.m. breakfast in the fellowship hall of Central Free Methodist Church in Pontoon Beach. Breakfast was served by the hostess, Doris Brown.

After breakfast, a devotional was given by Brown and a short business meeting was conducted by Vera Lynn, president. Special guests were Alberta Christ and Juanita Whisler, both of Lowpoint, Ill. Whisler gave a talk concerning the work of the WCTU and Christ gave a presentation on Frances Willard, who was the second president of the Illinois WCTU. Christ was dressed as Willard would have dressed in her day. She was born in 1839. Christ also spoke of the importance of Willard's work in the early days of the WCTU.

The next meeting of the WCTU will be a breakfast at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 10, in the fellowship hall of the Anchorage Homes in Granite City.

Medical degree is awarded

Corinna A. Hendrell of Granite City received a Doctor of Medicine Degree from the University of Illinois at Chicago at the close of the spring semester.

Social Security recipients must report moves promptly

By Bill Hunsot
Social Security Administration

Did you move in 1994? If you did and you receive Social Security benefits, be sure to notify the Social Security Administration as soon as possible. Even if your benefits are deposited directly into your bank account, you must notify Social Security when you move. Social Security needs your current mailing address to send you notices about your benefits.

One example is the annual Social Security Benefit Statement (Form SSA 1099). You need this form to determine whether you will pay federal income tax on benefits you receive in 1995. In January, Social Security will send you a statement showing the total amount of benefits you received during 1994. The statement will be accompanied by an IRS work sheet (Notice 708) that provides step-by-step directions on how to determine if any of your benefits are taxable.

To report an address change, contact your local Social Security office or call 1-800-772-1233.

Q. When my ex-husband retires, can I receive a wife's benefit on his Social Security, even if we're divorced?

A. If you were married to your ex-husband for at least 10 years and you are currently unmarried, you are entitled to the same benefits as a current wife. Wives of retirees drawing Social Security can draw benefits if they are at least 62. In addition, there is a special provision for divorcees. Ex-wives sometimes draw benefits before their ex-husbands retire. If you and your ex-husband are at least 62, you can receive benefits on his record even if he is not yet drawing his own Social Security benefits. There is one additional requirement for divorcees: spouses. They must be divorced for at least two years.

Q. How do I file a claim with Medicare for reimbursement of medical expenses?

A. Medical service providers — doctors, hospitals, medical labs, etc. — are required to submit your Medicare claims for you. You should notify Medicare if your doctor or other provider refuses to submit a claim for you.

Q. My dad, who is receiving SSI benefits, will be coming to live with me next month. Does he have to report it to Social Security?

A. Yes. Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients must report changes in their living arrangements within 10 days after the month the change occurs. If they don't, they may receive an incorrect payment. If your father fails to report his move, he will have to pay back the overpayment, if any, that results, and he may be penalized $60 by his local Social Security office.

Changes that must be reported by SSI recipients include increases or decreases in income, changes of address and moving in or out of someone else's home, even if the mailing address is not changed.

In addition, a report must be made if someone else moves in or out of the home of the SSI recipient, or if help is received in paying for food, utilities, rent or mortgage.

New workers' 'contract' needed

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

The old social contract between employers and employees — a secure job at a fair wage in exchange for satisfactory attendance, performance and loyalty to the firm — is dead, snuffed out by the new age of global competition and technological advances.

If there was any doubt, this year's wave of downsizing, at a pace that will eliminate a record 750,000 jobs, should put the final nails in the coffin of the old social contract.

A new contract recognizing that a particular job no longer is an employee's for life has yet to be written. But one is necessary if American businesses are to succeed in the years ahead, says Kenneth Chilton and Murray Weidenbaum, of the Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University.

In a booklet titled "A New Social Contract for the American Workplace: From Paternalism to Partnering," they outline such a contract, a necessary step toward restoring trust and credibility to the workplace, they say. The new social contract will be like the old in one respect: It will be implied. Unwritten. More akin to a binding handshake agreement than a legal document.

Chilton and Weidenbaum, deputy director and director of the center, respectively, document the demise of the old job-for-life contract.

Global competition highlighted failings of the U.S. system — "In too many American workplaces, the old social contract called for blue collar and clerical workers to cheer their brains at the door and simply follow orders," they wrote — while technological advances, particularly computers, eliminated the need for armies of supervisors and middle managers.

Downsizing, the term corporations apply to permanent reductions in employment, is a fixture of the workplace. And future downsizing waves are likely the result, revealed by surveys: Workers believe no job is secure, therefore morale is low and distrust of the employer high. A new social contract must embody this new reality, Chilton and Weidenbaum wrote.

"Employers and employees must come to understand that the highly competitive environment in which they find themselves binds them together," they wrote.

Thus, employees must accept the fact that no job is guaranteed, that downsizing is a possibility. And employers must acknowledge that human capital, the skills and abilities of their workers, is a resource to be mined, to be developed through training.

To build the trust necessary for the new social contract to work, employers also must be open and candid, announcing both good news and bad, seeking employee input into workplace decisions and letting employees supervise themselves, Chilton and Weidenbaum say.

All of which will prepare employer and employee for an uncertain future.

APA resident — The Granite City Association for the Protection of Animals recently visited Colonial Care Center residents with one of the dogs from the shelter. Residents at Colonial Care Center also donated several yarn dogs, made by ladies at the center, to the APA for their craft fair. All proceeds will be used to help defray the cost of the no-kill shelter. Pictured, from left in the front row, are Mary Veizer, resident, J.J., APA volunteer; Corky the dog; Kathy Nohl, assistant director of nursing; Jeff Swiatek, administrator, J.J., APA volunteer; and Dora Greer, assistant activity director. Monetary donations are being accepted by the Granite City Steel Credit Union at Lee & 20th Street for the shelter; please specify APA.

Thompson goes back to comedy in 'Junior'

Emma Thompson made her mark (and won an Academy Award) in lavish British period pieces such as "Howards End" and "Remains of the Day," and in film adaptations of Shakespeare with her husband, Kenneth Branagh.

So what is she doing in a new Hollywood comedy with Arnold Schwarzenegger?

"I have always been completely fascinated by Arnold," she says in a recent interview, jokingly describing the Hollywood megastar as "sort of a mythical beast."

The chance to juxtapose their polar-opposite screen personas — tough-guy action hero meets intellectual, proper British woman — was too intriguing for Thompson pass up.

"Junior" is the story of a cold, driven scientist with poor social skills (Schwarzenegger) who is persuaded by his partner (Dunay DeVito) to test a fertility drug on himself when the feds plug the plug on their experiments.

The continual gags (picture Schwarzenegger in drag, or on an eating binge) are tempered with lessons about sensitivity and parenthood learned over the course of the pregnancy. The Universal Pictures film was released in time for the Thanksgiving Day holiday and emerged in the top 10 at the box office.

Thompson plays the part of a pencil-chewing, absent-minded professor — a female Jerry Lewis — who unknowingly donates an egg to the project and winds up falling in love with the scientist.

Slipping cappuccino in a Manhattan hotel, graysuede-bootsed feet up on the coffee table, Thompson says she signed on to "Junior" because she was looking for a change and the script offered something rare, especially for Hollywood: an interesting female role.

"It was something I'd never seen before," she says. "It was a work-obsessed scientist who was perfectly satisfied with her life. Nothing wrong with her life — very clever, so there's wonderful opportunities for slapstick — and who becomes a sort of father figure."

"I thought it was great because it was original," she adds, she says, "the female character is not the guinea pig — for a change. It's nice to see the woman maintaining her integrity all the way through and the man being fiddled about with."

"Junior" also gave Thompson, 35, a chance to return to her comedic roots. Although she's appeared in such lighthearted fare as "The Princess Bride" and "The Princess Bride," most of the attention and acclaim she's received in recent years have been for her dramatic roles.

She won an Oscar in 1988 for her "Howards End" role as a free thinking woman who marries into money in Edwardian England, followed by two nominations last year for "The Remains of the Day" and "In the Name of the Father."

"I really wanted to do a comedy," Thompson says. "It's where I thought I'd always be working."

Thompson joined "Footlights," a theatrical troupe that launched many British comics, during her second year at Cambridge. She also did some stand-up, although she concentrated on monologues and sketches.

"Really what I wanted to be was Lily Tomlin," she says, describing both Tomlin and her writing partner, Jane Wollman, as geniuses. She's also a fan of Jennifer Saunders, a writer and star of "Absolutely Fabulous," a British sitcom that's developing a cult following on American cable television.

"I think laughter, what it produces inside you is very akin somehow to sex," she says. "It's sort of a relaxing and it produces a feeling of tremendous well-being. And it doesn't happen very often."

Thompson calls making her first mainstream Hollywood picture "a treat ... a visit to the land of Oz for 2½ months, which I really enjoyed."

But she headed back to England — "my own milieu ... where I'm obviously most comfortable" — as soon as it was over to star with Jonathan Pryce in another independent film, "Carrington," written by Christopher Hampton of "Dangerous Liaisons" fame.

And rather than simply join the chorus of complaints about the dearth of good roles for women in movies, she wrote her own screenplay, an adaptation of Jane Austen's 1811 novel, "Sense and Sensibility." Filming begins next spring, with Hugh Grant as co-star and Ang Lee ("The Wedding Banquet") directing.

"I suppose, if anything, what I would have liked to have accomplished when I drop off the twig, which of course could be any moment now, is to have done some writing that was halfway decent," Thompson says. "Because that's the most difficult discipline."

While Hollywood pays lip service to the problem, she says, "the fact is we're going to have to do it ourselves. We have to produce that material ourselves."

But won't she miss acting? "I don't think so, but then I don't know until I give it up, do I?" she asks, a twinkle in her cobalt blue eyes. "When I'll have to go cold turkey and think, 'Why aren't there any pictures of me up anywhere?' I suppose I'll be paying somewhere."

But maybe I think there comes a point where you get too old for that. — Associated Press

Horoscope

Thursday, Dec. 8
Creativity in financial matters is encouraged by a trine of Venus and Saturn today — some will invest in a piece of art or turn a creative flair into a money-making venture.

Emotional issues are brought into realistic focus — don't be afraid of the truth, as the wise ones have promised that it will set you free. Shop for accessories with great success.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A boost to your inner life and another gift will come in handy when the future gets cloudy.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) New information can make you big bucks. Get ready for a power cycle to begin — you're protected by those who love you. A mate may be bringing home extra bacon over next few weeks. Keep slashing funds aside.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Your mind is in faraway places, but demands of the moment come first and a job at hand calls for concentration. Responsibilities are increasing.

and you're more than equal to them — take a bow, winner!

CANCER (June 22-July 22) Favorable vibes afford you a chance to make creative daydreams come true. If you can't obtain items you wanted, look for substitutes — they may work out better than what you had in mind.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Yes, you can work out money deal that works well for all concerned. Stay alert — it pays to be sharp. You're tested by mate or a close associate who wants to know if you have real faith in his or her abilities.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 8)

8) At last, you're given the where-withal to make dreams come true — it'll take time, but it's worth the effort. Opportunities call for a big decision in January. Home and family take your attention in February. A lover's honeymoon is heaven in May. Through June and July, set your goals — the result is a gain by September. Next December sees you way ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Any thing you hear should be verified. Powerful friendships are behind you now, though they may not be showing it. Ask no favors, but tend to details — especially in financial matters.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your love life is still under the spot light as a gift from a wooer thrills you. Money is the main subject as you deal with what you wish you could do versus what the budget says you can do. Pay bills.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Making an extra special effort brings you to the attention of biggies. Kids' gifts are pricey — choose creative ways to deal with this. Strife earlier in the week can be mediated now as you begin anew together.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Extra income or a reversal of losses is possible if you investigate thoroughly. A chance to take control and manage your way to the top is just ahead — give a loving friend a break, too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your attitude of strength and courage draws others to you — don't be shy about being friendly with newcomers in your work place or neighborhood. A friend (maybe a Scorpio) has a terrific money tip for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Love with someone entirely different from your usual type is entirely possible — and you may be accepting a very special gift in honor of the relationship. Your career is going great guns — keep it up.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Despite the doubts of some around you, the future is strong, especially for you. Carefully read the fine print on all pending deals to protect yourself from unwanted surprises.
